

Sands Global Ambassador David Beckham returns to Marina Bay Sands

Beckham to stay at integrated resort and attend charity event on November 25

Singapore (3 November 2017) – Marina Bay Sands will be welcoming international icon and Sands Global Ambassador David Beckham back to the integrated resort in support of the Benefit Dinner associated with one of its designated charities.

As part of the IR's corporate social responsibility (CSR) programme Sands for Singapore, Beckham will be invited to grace the red carpet and attend the Benefit Dinner for the Singapore International Film Festival (SGIFF) to be held at Sands Expo and Convention Centre on the evening of 25 November.

He will be walking the red carpet alongside celebrities including Inferno and Life of Pi actor Irrfan Khan, veteran Bollywood star Waheeda Rehman, legendary cinematographer Christopher Doyle, Hong Kong filmmaker Jenny Suen and award-winning Vietnamese-born French film director Tran Anh Hung.

In his capacity as Sands' ambassador, Beckham will lend weight to the cause championed by Marina Bay Sands for the Benefit Dinner which helps raise funds for the Asian film community and increase efforts to grow in the art audience regionally.

Over the years, Marina Bay Sands has built a strong rapport with Beckham, having involved the star in a number of its CSR initiatives that aim to give back and provide unique opportunities for the local community and the IR's designated charities.

In 2014, Beckham helped launch the annual Sands for Singapore Charity Festival and participated in a football clinic with beneficiaries from SportCares Singapore. In 2015, he spent time with ASEAN Para Games athletes and observed a football 5-A-side match for the visually impaired at Marina Bay Sands.
